Second only to London in terms of economic output and population size, Manchester is without question the capital of the north. It's also the UK's best city to live in according to The Economist magazine.

Offering everything you'd expect from a modern global city, there are countless attributes that make it such a popular destination. The lifestyle, the prowess of its universities, its connectivity, the strength and diversity of its business community, the popularity of its football teams, to name but a few.

The city also stands to benefit from a number of infrastructure projects such as HS2 and the expansion of Manchester Airport. Put this all together and it's easy to see why Manchester has enjoyed the fastest economic growth of any city outside of London in the last 20 years. A trend that is unlikely to abate any time soon.

Manchester has always been a city for embracing life. Voted the top UK city to live in by The Economist's Global Liveability Index 2022 and the 3rd Best City in the World by TimeOut (2021), its desirability as a place to call home is well documented.

Of course affordability plays a part. Compared to London, the cost of living is that bit lower, but hand in hand with this is the lifestyle its residents enjoy. Boasting a truly eclectic blend of food, drink, culture, music and sport – including two of the world's most famous football teams – Manchester can rival anything the capital has to offer. It's a true 24-hour city with everything you could ask for. This is what makes it such an attractive destination to live and study in.

Restaurants

With over 650 venues, Manchester's food scene is as eclectic as you'd expect from such a diverse metropolis. A veritable world tour of culinary delights awaits your palette.

In terms of fine dining, the Michelin starred Mana leads the way. Adam Reid at The French, Tom Kerridge's Bull & Bear at Stock Exchange and 20 Stories are hot on its heels though.

Good food isn't about the size of the bill though, as venues such as Happy Seasons, Little Aladdin, Shoryu Ramen and Habesha ably demonstrate. Whatever you fancy and whatever your budget, you'll find yourself perfectly catered to.

Bars

From sleek and sophisticated cocktail bars to bustling, beat-filled venues, the city's nightlife is every bit as varied as its restaurant scene.

Cloud 23 combines the finest mixology with stunning views across the city. At the other end of the spectrum, there are an array of speakeasy-style bars, such as The Pen and Pencil, Arcane and Science & Industry.

There are plenty of traditional pubs dotted about the city too. For all Manchester's modernity, it has definitely not forgotten its past.

HAWKSMOOR: Set in a late Victorian courthouse, the sumptuous décor perfectly complements the menu's refined dry-aged beef and seafood.

>
TAST CATALA: Three stylish floors offering the best of Spain, with a tapas bar, à la carte dining and a tasting menu to enjoy.

Retail

With its roots in the cotton industry, Manchester has always been a city at forefront of fashion. Today, the Northern Quarter arguably leads the way for the city's fashion scene due to its host of trendy independent stores, including Afflecks, Junk Shop and Oi Polloi.

The Royal Exchange, King Street, Spinningfields, New Cathedral Street, Selfridges and Harvey Nichols cater to the designer end of the market. While the Manchester Arndale has all the high street favourites you could ask for.

Slightly further afield, but readily accessible by tram are Quayside MediaCityUK (25 mins) and The Trafford Centre (36 mins). Rest assured, your wardrobe will be every bit as impressive as your home.

Culture

The birthplace of Oasis, New Order, The Smiths and the Hacienda, music is part of the fabric of Manchester. An array of venues offering everything from chart-topping artists to classical symphonies and the next big things are dotted though out the city. In fact the AO Arena is right on your doorstep.

There are plenty of museums, galleries and theatres to explore too. The true passion of Manchester is of course football however. The city is split in terms of its allegiances, but whether you're United or City for life, rest assured Old Trafford and The Etihad Stadium are both readily accessible. You're also moments from the National Football Museum.

< ETIHAD STADIUM: The 53,400 capacity home of the current Premier League Champions, Manchester City.

< SELFRIDGES & CO: Where luxury lives, enjoy the crème de la crème of fashion and beauty.

^ THE DEAF INSTITUTE: See the next big things at one of the coolest gig venues in the country.

Well-being

There are times when the pace of city life can become a bit draining and it's good to unwind. There are countless gyms, yoga studios and even a rock climbing centre in the local area. Or if you prefer exercising in the great outdoors, Manchester's waterways are the perfect running track.

Cathedral Gardens or Angel Meadow Park are great spots to unwind with friends or a book. While the much anticipated City River Park, will add another 35,000 sqm of new and improved park and woodland to the city by 2024, as part of redevelopment plans for Red Bank.

^
CATHEDRAL GARDENS: Manchester's newest public space, the gardens are surrounded by the city's history and modernity.

RIVER IRWELL & BRIDGEWATER CANAL: Once alive with industry, today Manchester's waterways are popular cycle and running routes.

As the birthplace of the industrial revolution, Manchester's been an economic powerhouse since 1760. It's just today cotton has been replaced by AI, data, cyber, construction tech, e-commerce, media, medtech and countless other dynamic sectors.

Manchester is the largest UK city region economy outside of London, with a GVA of £71bn. Not to mention, a leading European business destination and the most successful UK city for attracting foreign direct investment after the capital.

&lt;

MEDIACITYUK: A 200-acre hub for the creative industries on the bank of Salford's Ship Canal (25 mins from One Victoria), that's home to the BBC, ITV, dock10 and c250 smaller media and digital businesses.

Success, of course, breeds success. In recent years, a who's who of well-known businesses and organisations have decided to call Manchester home – the BBC, BUPA, Freshfields, Siemens, ITV, Google, Amazon and Kellogg's – and many more are joining them, strengthening the city's status in the UK and globally.

A great place to study and to start a career, Greater Manchester boasts five higher education institutions and one of the largest student populations in Europe.

Some 99,000 people, including 41,000 international students study across the city. Even more impressive is the fact over 50% of the city's students stay in Manchester on graduation. A better validation of both the quality of life and the career prospects Manchester has to offer would be hard to find.
